PREAMBLE

This 'guide book' is a helpful tool showing you the way to the library and help you get to know the extraordinarily rich collection which we have compiled since this institution was established. The library houses an extensive and varied collection of scores, books, reference books, magazines, manuscripts, early prints, music recordings and objects. True, scores and books on music make up the bulk of the collection in the library of the Conservatoire, but you will find works on theatre, dance and ballet as well. It also has a wide array of poem collections, novels and art books on offer.

We have been investing in this library since 1867 and many generations of librarians and library staff have delved up books, scores and magazines and presented them to users ever since. We hope that you will be able to find what you are looking for. The library team will be happy to assist you.

Lending library: The lending library has temporarily moved due to construction works in the Conservatory to the Karel Oomsstraat 47A, 2018 Antwerp (next to the Albert Heijn). If you go through the driveway you can enter through the first glass door on the left side. You can find the library at the second floor.

On Facebook, you can find more information about the library.
Follow Bibliotheek Koninklijk Conservatorium Antwerpen via www.facebook.com.

OFFER

The library is divided into three spaces and consists of the reading room (Beel Laag), the lending library (5th floor) and the stock room (6th floor).

In the reading room, you will find – in addition to reference books such as encyclopaedias, catalogues, bibliographies and a few standard works – the current year's magazine publications. Collected works can be consulted as well (such as the Neue Bach-Aufgabe or the collected works of Arnold Schönberg).

All the works in the reading room can be consulted freely and must not be photocopied, except collected publications (said copies will be made by the library staff).

The public computers in the reading room also provide access to electronic information sources. This means you can do research in catalogues, encyclopaedias (such as Grove Music Online), databases (RIPM, RILM, JSTOR) using titles of magazine articles and full-text magazines.

The lending library is located on the fifth floor. Here, sheet music, books on music, books on plays, collections of poems, novels and books on dance and ballet are stored. Everything has been systematically divided into subject headings. You can look up items using the public computers, the card catalogue on practical music according to subject headings or directly on the shelves. CDs and DVDs are lent out here (free of charge for both students and teachers of the Conservatoire).

The lending library also provides interlibrary loans. To this end the library is connected to Impala. Please ask the librarian for more details.

Caution! The lending library had temporarily moved to the Karel Oomsstraat 47A, 2018 Antwerp.

The stock room on the sixth floor is not open to the public. This floor primarily houses old and precious works. Works stored in the stock room can be requested using the catalogue.

Caution! The stock room is temporarily moved to a depot in Schelle, but we do everything we can to make requests as smooth as possible. Please request documents from the stock room in time so that we can help you as quickly as possible. You will be notified when the document is ready for you in the reading room.

CATALOGUES

The computerized catalogue contains every acquisition since 1999 together with an extensive description and around 60,000 short title descriptions from the old file which are being systematically completed. In this catalogue, you can look up items using the following keywords:

- The title or a word in the title
- The author
- A headword
- The opus number
- The key
- The instrumentation
- ISBN-, ISSN-, ISMN- and lp- or cd-numbers
- The publisher
- The language

Using 'advanced search' you can combine keywords (e.g. title + key) or limit the search result (e.g. only works published after the year 2000).

Some tips:

- A standard name was allocated to each composer or author, thereby facilitating the search (regardless of the fact whether you enter 'tchaikovsky' or 'tsjaikovski', the result will be the same).
- If you know the correct title, you can perform your search using the full title. Standard titles have been added to the recent records, thereby necessitating only one search item for 'Die Daubréelites', 'La flute enchanter', 'The magic flute' and 'De toverfluit'.
- Performing a search using a word from the title can be useful if you do not have the full or precise data.
- A combined search makes the search result a lot more precise.

The faculty library's catalogue can also be consulted online using the research portal www.libraryconservatoryantwerp.be > click on Bibliotheek > catalogi > Catalogue Koninklijk Conservatorium - AP Hogeschool Antwerpen).

On the fourth floor, you can find the card catalogue. Said catalogue is complete up to and including 1998 and is divided into scores, theoretical works and audio materials (LPs and CDs).

Insofar as scores are concerned, you can choose between two catalogues that are composed in the following manners:

- alphabetically according to composer; alphabetically according to title
- alphabetically according to subject heading; alphabetically per subject heading according to composer and title

Insofar as theoretical works are concerned, various sub catalogues exist that are composed in the following manners:

- literary works:

- literary works: alphabetically according to author, per author alphabetically according to title
- literary works: alphabetically according to subject heading, per subject heading alphabetically according to author and title.

- magazines:

- per subject heading (TT and TY) alphabetically according to title; per title chronologically according to author and title.

- theoretical works:

- alphabetical catalogue according to author; per author alphabetically according to title
- alphabetical catalogue according to subject heading; per subject heading alphabetically according to author and title
- alphabetical catalogue according to subject/keyword; per subject alphabetically according to author and title (incomplete!)

Insofar as audio materials are concerned, two catalogues exist that are composed in the following manners:

- gramophone records: alphabetically according to composer; per composer divided into subgenres
- CDs: alphabetically according to composer

SEARCH

Searches can be performed using the digital catalogue and possibly the card catalogue. However, the library has a lot more on offer. The reading room, for example, is a real treasure trove of information:

The New Grove and Die Music in Geschichte und Gegenwart (MGG) are the main general music encyclopaedias. In addition to solid basic information, a literature list featuring leading publications can be found during each search. Articles on composers are each time accompanied by a survey of their work. Thematic music encyclopaedias adhere to the same principle, but focus on an area.

General music history books are often divided into periods and usually provide more extensive information than encyclopaedias. We have works such as Handbuch der musikalischen Gattungen and The New Oxford History of Music.

Thematic catalogues each time survey a composer's work, often using own numbering and mostly mentioning incipits. Probably the most widely known example is Chronologisch-thematisches Verzeichnis sämtlicher Tonwerke W.A. Mozart's by Ludwig von Köchel.

We also provide catalogues according to instrument, genre, geographical location and period. They vary insofar their use and composition are concerned. A good example is the Music in Print series (print and on CD-ROM) in which searches according to instrumentation can be performed.

Using the public computers in the reading room and the loan service, several leading encyclopaedias and databases such as Grove Music Online, RIPM (Retrospective Index to Music Periodicals, 1800-1950), RILM (Répertoire International de Littérature Musicale), International Bibliography of Theatre & Dance with Full Text and Classical Music Library (a database composed of tens of thousands of music recordings) can be consulted.

RISM surveys the existing musical sources (until 1800). Here, you can find whom composed which works, in which volumes they appeared and where the manuscripts are located.

RILM and Music Index are music literature bibliographies. Here references to literature that was published recently can be found. The Music Index only provides excerpts from magazines. RILM also refers to books and each time provides a very concise summary of the text's contents. Online you can look for magazine articles via Anet, public libraries, the Lemmens institute, Swetswise, Elsevier, ... Going through the catalogues you can verify whether the magazine is present in the library or whether it is available through the interlibrary loan network.

The International Bibliography of Theatre & Dance with Full Text features over 60,000 articles on performing arts.

METHODOLOGY

Whoever wants to consult a work from the library that's not available for loan, can make an online request using the catalogue. If you click on a work you can select 'Documentaanvraag' [request for document] on top. Subsequently, a log-in page will appear. Students and teachers must log in using their username (s...@ap.be or p...@ap.be) and password. Third parties can log in using their card number and date of birth (DD/MM/YYYY).

The stock room is temporarily moved to a depot in Schelle, but we do everything we can to make requests as smooth as possible. Please request documents from the stock room in time so that we can help you as quickly as possible. You will be notified when the document is ready for you in the reading room.

SUBJECT HEADINGS

Which subject headings exist (and what can be found in them?) What do they contain? – The subject heading system dates from 1948 and has been maintained ever since. The placement of the works – both in the lending library and in the stock room – is based on this system. Some subject headings can only be found in the stock room. However, most works having the same subject heading are scattered throughout both the lending library and the stock room. The exact location of a copy can be looked up in the online catalogue.

Library rules and regulations Koninklijk Conservatorium [Royal School of Music]
Artesis Plantijn Hogeschool Antwerp [Artesis Plantijn University College]

1. Access

Artesis Plantijn Hogeschool Antwerpen students and staff, but also third parties have free access to the library. Users must always be able to identify themselves by means of their student or staff card or their identity card (third parties).

Staff, students, emeriti, pensioners and alumni of the Association between the Antwerp University and Institutes of Higher Education (AUHA) have free access to any library. Third parties pay an annual contribution.

2. Opening days and hours

The opening days and hours will be determined by the librarian and the faculty board. These are announced at the library's entrance and on the website (www.libraryconservatoryantwerp.be and www.ap.be/bibliotheken).

3. Code of conduct

- In the library, every activity which might disturb other readers or the functioning of the library is to be avoided. Only study activities and research are allowed.
- No bags or jackets are allowed in the reading room nor in the lending library.
- In the reading room users will receive a locker key in exchange for their identity card.
- Smoking, eating and drinking is not allowed.
- Telephoning or listening to music is not allowed.
- Works must be handled with care. Users must not make stains, creases or notes.
- When consulting manuscripts or precious works, only the use of a pencil will be permitted.
- Whenever publications (books, scores, recordings) are largely based on library sources, one copy must be deposited in the library.
- Works must not be removed from the library unless permitted in the context of a loan.
- When leaving the library, readers must check out spontaneously for initiating the loan procedure and checking the books they have in their possession.
- Visitors wrongfully removing works from the library or refusing to be checked can be denied access to the library.
- The library cannot be held liable for damage or theft of personal belongings that were left behind.

4. Computer use

- Only activities about educational and research assignments are allowed.
- Electronic databases can only be used considering the conditions imposed by publishers. Passwords must not be handed down to third parties.

5. Borrowing

- Upon presentation of a valid student or staff card AP students and staff can borrow works free of charge. Following an enrolment procedure free of charge alumni are permitted to loan works free of charge.
- Upon presentation of a valid student or staff card AUHA students and staff are permitted to loan works free of charge.
- Following the finalization of the enrolment procedure and the payment of the annual contribution third parties will be permitted to borrow works.
- In principle, the following works cannot be borrowed:
Works such as magazines, reference books, encyclopaedias, loose-leaf works, unpublished dissertations, manuscripts, historical collections and titles the librarian has barred from borrowing. Exceptions can be requested on condition that such requests be motivated.
- Upon receipt of works lenders must check them and request that substantial damage be recorded, otherwise it will be assumed that they have received the works in good condition. Damaged or lost works must be compensated or replaced.
- Lenders remain responsible for each work they borrow. Loan books must not be handed down to third parties.
- The borrowing period cannot be extended by more than two times, on condition that no other reader has requested the work in question. Extensions must be requested prior to the expiration date of the normal borrowing period.
- The librarian can request a borrowed work back at any time.
- Reservations for borrowed works can be made via the library website, by mail, by telephone or at the counter.
- Every borrowed work must be handed in no later than on the expiration date of the borrowing period, otherwise a fine will be due.
- Reminders will be sent for works the borrowing period of which has expired.
- Lenders cannot borrow works if a fine is still due.
- Not returning borrowed works will be regarded as theft.

6. Interlibrary loans and document delivery

- The librarian can request works with the interlibrary loan network on condition that the interlibrary agreements in place be respected.
- Books requested via the interlibrary loan network can never be borrowed and must be consulted in the library. Magazine articles will be made available in the form of photocopies.
- Only registered users are permitted to make use of the interlibrary loan network.
- AP students and staff must make requests for the interlibrary loan network in their own faculty library.

6. Photocopies, digital photographs and scans

- Photocopies, digital photographs and scans can only be used for photocopies permitted by the applicable legislation.
- Without the librarian's permission, digital works the rights of which belong to the library must not be reproduced or recorded. Insofar as other works are concerned, the permission from the author or publisher in question is required.

- Readers must take care when photocopying or photographing works, thereby avoiding damage. The costs will be borne by the users.
- Collected publications, precious and damaged works, large volumes and publications dating back to the period prior to 1950 must not be copied. Permission can be requested to have these works photocopied or scanned by the library staff.
- Students and teachers can make photocopies using the student or staff card they have charged via the website <https://webdeposit.ap.be>.
- External users can buy a print card for 7€ (2€ purchase price, 5€ photocopy credit).
